++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Wet and wintry at first this weekend, becoming fine later.

Today:
Friday will be dry. After a frosty and in places icy start with some freezing fog patches around, some sunny spells will develop. Patchy low cloud may drift in across the east and southeast. Cold, especially over any snow cover. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry at first, but a band of rain will arrive from the west giving persistent rainfall overnight, potentially turning wintry even to low levels briefly. Cold, with winds strengthening. Minimum temperature -4 deg C (25 deg F).

Saturday:
Overnight rain and mainly hill snow will clear eastwards by midday leaving some showers behind. Brightening up later though and dry overnight. Risk of ice continues. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Dry with sunny spells Sunday, but with night time showers. Dry with sunny spells again Monday, but outbreaks of rain, perhaps heavy, will arrive during the evening and continue Tuesday.
